THE point most worthy of attention with re gard to the salt junk squeezing case, which now under the consideration of the Authorities, is the question whether the same thing is not going on in other directions in the Colony, with respect to cargo of much more immediate importance to the foreign merchants trade. It is quite natural that the Chinese should have taken bolder steps in order to levy a duty upon this article than they would be prepared to adopt with respect to other cargo. Salt is so thoroughly recognised throughout China as a taxed article-it being the subject of a government monopoly in every part of the Empire-that it is comparatively easy to persuade ignorant junkmen that they are called upon to pay a tax in Hongkong. Hence, it is quite in the order of things that might be expected, for these taxes to be first levied upon salt; but it is reasonable to believe that if, as there is now no doubt, this has been going on utterly unknown to the Authorities in Hongkong for the space of three years or more, other cargo of a far more paying description has been subjected to squeezes in a similar manner. Upon this point, however, we are not in possession of any information so definite as that which has come out in reference to the Salt after the usual caution had been given. From Tax Office, but we hear upon authority which there is reason to believe reliable, that although the door was locked, a man could there are taxes levied in Hongkong upon easily enter, and in this way Leong Achan got in. reign merchandise. It will, of course, be There was formerly a door of communication very difficult at the present time to discover when this was removed, the aperture had been whether this is really the case, as the breaking up of the salt office will have the effect of putting those concerned in the illegal levy of duties more carefully on their guard; and the 5th instant, he shad returned to bed about it is scarcely to be imagined that the Registrar-General's Office, or whatever other Department of the Government is charged with discovering matters of this kind, will be able to find out what is going on, seeing that | asleep, and was fortunate enough in the first they failed to find out the existence of the salt taxing establishment, which has been going on for so long a period as above men-

This consideration is by no means comfort. ing to those who are immediately interested in the commercial properity of this Colony, because, such a system of squeezing makes the trade of the place simply the sport of the Chinese officials and their employes. Chinamen are allowed to come to Hongkong and set up "Halls of Peace and Harmony, for the purpose of levying duties upon foreign goods for the benefit of the Mandarins. it is not very surprising that trade is found to be unsatisfactory, and that the markets mind in passing sentence. The iron imple are subjected to irregularities which the foreign merchant is unable to account for, and which militate in the most serious manner against his interests. It is, therefore, in the highest degree desirable that there should be the means in this Colony for ascertaining whether any more such taxing offices are in existence, but it is quite certain, unfortunately, that such means do not exist. There is no detective force, and the other sources of Chinese information are now proved to be ntterly defective. It cannot, however, be supposed that the Authorities in this Colony are prepared to admit that they are unable to deal with this matter. If they have to make such an admission, they must at least show in a fifthy state. The Chinese must by this time The Chronicle and Directory for 1871. have fully discovered that they can levy these taxes with the smallest possible chance of discovery; and if the principle enunciated by the Cuptain Superintendent of Police, that if the permits are roully issued by the Mandaring, the men found in Hongkong using them to levy taxes cannot be touched by the Law, be adhered to the natives will further make the agreeable discovery that it does not matter whether they are found out or not. The result of making a matter of the kind a diplomatic question can be easily conceived, that is, if will end in the expenditure of a considerable amount of Her Majesty's foolscap, -st pratered nihil. If the Colony of Hongkong cannot prevent the surreptitious levy of taxes within its own borders, it may assuredly appeal in vain to the Canton Authorities. Their answer, if they give one at all, is plain. They will simply say that they ordered the men to levy the taxes on Chinese territory, and not in Hongkong, and there the matter will end, If it is really the fact that the Law, will not under such circumstances meet the case, it will be absolutely necessary for the security of the trade of the Colony that, the matter should be at once taken up by the Legis-

The P.M.S.S. Japan appears to have been exceedingly unfortunate on her last return voyage from this port. After her detention in this harbour, by picking up her forward mooring chain, particulars of which were duly published a correspondent notices her other misbaps. Writing at sea on December 9th, be eays: "In expectation of falling in with the Great Republic, this evening or to morrow morning, I just write a few lines to let you know I am all right, though under great difficulties, as the Japan is rolling in a most unthan salt; which is an article only of native almost; hove to that is we could not steer our course, and had to keep the moving just fast enough to give her seeinge way, and even this was bardly enough, for we were in all readiness to give her the Parachute drag, to keep her head on. Altogether the passage to Yokohama was one of the most trying I have gone through. Just after leaving Yokohama the air pump unjuckily broke down, being transferred to the New York. The damage, however, was fortunately repaired, and we have come along all right so far."

THE APPROACHING ECLIPSE. . (Nature, November 17)

We are glad to announce that the Government has expressed its intention to aid in the most ample manner the proposed Eclipse Exeditions. In making this announcement, we feel that what has recently appeared in the daily Press renders certain explanations desinot sek that a time should be named; in fact, it wis a letter sent to the Treasury, apparently only for their information, and was nothing more than a copy of the resolution passed at the meeting of the Joint Committee. After a week had slapsed without any answer being received by the Joint Committee to the letter which it was supposed had been sent to Mr. Gladstone asking him to mame a time for a deputation :member of the Joint Committee. Mr. Lockver. alled at the Treasury to inquire the reason of the lelay in the answer, and of course he was informed that no. letter, had been received requiring any answer. Upon it being represented that a wark, and under such restraints with regard to delay, in the announcement of the Government intentions until a proper letter could be received from the Secretary of the Royal Society would be fatal to the Expedition, Mr. Lockyer was requested to state the actual requirements of the Scientific, Bodies to M. This time the French outposts arrested their ouward runrch. They exhibited their pusses, and immediately were allowed to proceed again. Hitherto they had been within the French lines, in safety. Now that they were beyond them, and between the advanced posts of the combatants, their danger became considerable : either side might have fired on them. Accordingly they put in practice the counsel they had received in Paris, drew out their handkerchiefs, and never ceased to wave them as they walked along the broad road lined with trees and shrubs on either side leading towards Bezons, where they hoped to find a passage across the second bend of the Scine. So here they were-two peaceful Englishmen, one past the middle age. the other in the prime of life, dressed in unromantic civilian clothes and black bats, and one of them wearing spectacles, walking along a grees has been uniform and steady, each year dismal country road, without a single being in sight, and liable at every step they took to be fired upon by some sharpshooter or fraue-tireur be the posted behind hedge or free.
